Becker Reveals Changes At Tuesday Convocation

Several changes in the faculty and administrative staffs of Wartburg were announced Tuesday at convocation by Dr. C. H. Becker, president of the college.

Beginning next Tuesday, Nov. 1, Miss Mattie K. Harms will take over the duties of registrar, replacing the Rev. W. C. Prichard, who was appointed acting head of the Christianity department. Mr. Fritschel will also continue as director of admissions.

Miss Harms came to Wartburg last year and since that time has served as assistant to the registrar and director of the Wartburg college placement service. Mr. Fritschel began his duties here in 1937 as registrar and associate professor of Christianity.

Hovdesven Joins Staff.

Third appointment announced by Dr. Becker was that of Dr. E. A. Hovdesven of Chicago, ill., to the college staff as instructor in organ. Dr. Hovdesven will replace Dr. Robert Hieber, who resigned suddenly last week as assistant professor of music and organist.

Dr. Hovdesven comes to Wartburg from a wide experience of teaching and concert work. He has taught at St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn., where he received his bachelor of music degree. Other teaching positions were held by him at Wittenberg college, Springfield, Ohio, and North Texas Teachers college, Denton, Tex.

Awarded A. C. C. O.

Dr. Hovdesven holds degrees from the Institute of Musical Art of New York City and from Toronto conservatory, Toronto, Canada, where he was awarded the F. R. C. M. degree in organ and choir. After taking further training in Paris, France, Dr. Hovdesven was awarded the A. R. C. M. degree for his graduate graduate work in Paris, France.

Dr. Hovdesven is the father of two sons, one a graduate student and the other graduating from high school this spring. The new instructor's wife and daughter began his duties on Monday, Oct. 31.

Junior-senior banquet arrangements constituted the main part of the program of the meeting held in room 22 of Luther hall. President Judy Voyer called the meeting to order, bold. Beverly Moderow, Norman Fiedler, Harold Wilcox and Marvin Gotl to assist her on the banquet committee. Miss Voyer plans to finance the banquet by the membership fee of the class cards, which began yesterday.

Freshman mail in the gymnasium and voted in favor of a class project. George Ulrich, president, announced that a suggestion box will be placed in Luther hall.

Proposed Projects Narrowed To Five

Thursday's election cut the list of proposed student body projects to five. Bowling alley, recreation room, swimming pool, college bus and gym facilities were the five suggestions that received the most votes in the Thursday vote.

Final choice of a student body project will be made as soon as the committee finds an interested person to back each of these projects.

"Because of the high cost, there is a possibility that the swimming pool project will be dropped," stated John Wilcox, president of the Senate project committee. "In this event, the chapel fund project will be substituted."

We feel it emphasize that there is the thought of unity as well as the service that is being arranged for the Waterloo area."

Newsweek Features Rubinstein Story

Arthur Rubinstein

By Omar Bonderud

Pianists and their technique will undoubtedly have an honored place in the annals of history after Rubinstein when the great pianist appears in the Wartburg Artist Series Nov. 7, according to the featured story in the Oct. 24 issue of Newsweek magazine.

Though he is now 62 years these Chopin numbers only for "major works" on the pianist's concert tour, Rubinstein's interest probably indicates that Wanda Landowska never will. She has a little Chopin. At Rubinstein's request, Fredrick Chopin fund, Rubinstein will give one week hence in the fellow Pole on the 100th anniversary of Chopin's death by playing a memorial recital at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York.

"During the past ten years Artur Rubinstein has produced more performances per person than people than any other pianist," says the Newsweek story. Minimum Fee $5,500.

In October, and April, for example, he will present 85 concerts with an "average minimum" fee of $5,500. Rubinstein has played in every country in the world except Tibet. During his 48 years of concertizing he has traveled more than two million miles.

In contrast with modern, sell-out receptions of the "kang of pianists" was his 1901 American concert tour, of which he now says, "I thought I had lost America forever."

Just a few years before that tour Saint-Saens had introduced him to a Paris concert group as "one of the greatest pianists he knew."

Famous For 'Grandness.'

Famous for what Newsweek calls his "grandness," Rubinstein seems more at home among artists, statesmen, businessmen and international social celebrities than in the concert hall.

Musicians are individualists, Dr. Ottenberg explains of Rubinstein.

As evidence of Rubinstein's individualism, Newsweek points to Rubinstein's talking for the American flag in Paris. Unfortunately for him, his remarks were made at the time Paris was anti-American because of its government.

"The sheer magnificence of sound from his Steinway evokes memories of past masters of the keyboard," says the Newsweek reporter, in the present," concluded the Newsweek story.

Senator To Appear On Atomic Forum

Bourke B. Hickenlooper, U. S. senator from Iowa, and former chairman of the atomic energy committee, will speak on "Shall Civilization Destroy Itself?" in the first Monday evening lecture of the series on public forum sponsored by Wartburg. "Shall Atomic Energy Destroy Us?"

To be broadcast directly from the auditorium of Waterloo, Ia., West high school, the forum will begin at 8 p.m. in the city's high school auditorium.

Dr. C. H. Becker, president of Wartburg college, will be moderator of the panel, which, includes, besides Hickenlooper, Dr. Harold Urey, professor of nuclear research at the University of Iowa, and Glenn E. Schulte of Loras college in Dubuque.

Panel will include a retired naturalist of U. S. atomic policy. Tickets are now on sale at the Waterloo Y.W.C.A. and will be on sale before being 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Frye Gets Choice To Address Grads

Dr P. C. Frye, president of the United Lutheran church, was chosen by the senior class to be the commencement speaker, according to John Walker, president of the class.

Dr. Frye was selected by the class from a list of three at a meeting. Other speakers under consideration were Dr. Walter A. Maier of the Lutheran Hour program; L. C. LaDrumond, well-known lutheran minister who has taken the slogan "God runs my business," and the Rev. Reuben K. Youngdahl, pastor at St. Olivet Lutheran church in Minneapolis.

Should Dr. Frye be unable to accept the invitation, Dean Bureo will serve as alternates in the order given.

Society Demands Proof

"College is a good haven for the incompetent. We should have more people going to college to keep them from fouling up society."

These are strange sounding opinions, but we run across them while studying the prevailing conditions and attitudes of our present-day colleges. The question arises, "How do we come to such conclusions?"

To answer this, we need only to reflect on some of the following points:

1. Is a person who studies English, science, history and all the rest only because he is told he should—in such a person competent to work and live with his fellow citizens?

2. Is a person who confidently has to be told to read so many pages, work so many problems and who, when told, can't see the reason, why but is ready to cry foul to complain—in such a person capable of playing a role in society?

3. Is a person who attends church or chapel or meetings merely because of the compulsion to follow men because he thinks that he should follow the actions of the "right people"—is such a person going to be a boon to society?

Undoubtedly disagreement concerning the answers to these questions will arise, but the final answer would have to be "no."

And now comes the regretful conclusion which no one of us can deny if we are honest with ourselves. Our colleges are full of such students—full to the brim. Our conclusion is that our colleges, even Wartburg, are able to absorb a large number, thereby reducing the percentages of such people in more active society.

We often hear the saying, "College ruins a lot of good truck drivers."

In light of the foregoing observations, we might also say, "College keeps a lot of poor truck drivers off the roads."

Is college a haven for the incompetent? We ourselves are college students and we don't agree. And that's just what our point is. Some of society really has to be that—but they won't believe US until WE prove it to them.

Political Pageant

By Claude Gretling

Truman's Ostrich Policy

Chinese communist Premier Mao Tse-tung now is head of a government which rules three-fourths of the Chinese millions of people. Russia and her satellites, as was expected, immediately recognized him. The pressure is now on the west to follow the example. What can we do?

As Prime Minister Pandit Nehru of India pointed out so ably during his recent visit to the U.S., "We have to live with China. America can hardly afford, politically or economically, to continue to ignore the fact that it is the rule of the Nationalist government."

If the communists do not yet control all of China, they soon will.

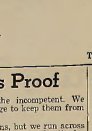
Mao Tse-tung is working the west. How can we overcome him, we are running the risk of driving him further and further into the fang of the Kremlin. He needs economic assistance. He can't get it from America, he'll have to turn to Russia.

At the present, the Chinese communist state is not entirely a Soviet puppet. There are hopes that Mao Tse-tung, with our help, can keep it that way. In a word Titoism. But it will by necessity become just another strawman of the politburo.

What if we do not recognize him? He is now ruling a strongly individualistic people. If history is any guide to the people of China, we would be foolish not to grant him our blessings. If it doesn't work immediately, it will in time. Communism is on the power very long. China has a remarkable capacity for "swallowing" conquerors. What have we to lose?

President Truman should not be swayed by pressure. The Republicans may have strong and influential supporters in Taiwan. Those men will fight to the bitter recognition of Mao Tse-tung, not because they are especially worried about the "scoundrel" of his government, but because their personal interests lie in opposite directions.

Americans, divided like in the direction of recognition of Mao Tse-tung, should find common ground on the good war for Asia. We can't maintain the fiction that Chiang Kai-shek and Mao Tse will last or not is of little importance. Neither does it matter whether his government is truly representative. (We have recognized other governments which took power by force, as in South America.) What is important is that we have to make the best of a tough break. Recognition is the only logical way out.



Prof. Argent Bastle
Sociology Department

Dear Prof. Bastle:

Though I was unavoidably absent from your class in sociology last Wednesday, I want to inform you that I have very much serious thought to the topic which you discussed during that period of the class session. Because I consider myself an expert in the field of "sleeping in class," which I understand was the topic of your consideration, I feel that you should know of some of my research in this field.

First of all, I think we should use the tools of a true scientist and take a rationally rational, objectively objective view of the whole thing. I don't understand it, you, the so many professors are opposed to having students sleep in class; like so many professors and skeptical students, you also consider the condition the result of the student who sleeps. Though I disagree with your assumption, Prof. Bastle, I shall try to be completely objective in my discussion of the subject.

What is sleep? I take it for granted that when we sleep, we are unconscious. We are not thinking of boredom or of dire physical ills. Not of good, solid, future-instituted diversion of work. When we put us define sleep as Webster does—a "natural, periodical and periodical diminution of organism, [illegible]

What causes sleep? According to John B. Gaines writing in the Encyclopedia of Psychology, "There is one thing about sleep that is certainly true about sleep—and that is what causes it."

With several years of study, the subject have advanced some theories concerning the cause of sleep. Probably the best one and the one most widely held is that given sleeping occurs is that of Dr. Walter Rudolph Hess, director of the University of Chicago's Institute of Physiology. He believes that we remain awake only as long as the brain is sufficiently stimulated by the outside world to keep the thalamus active in muscular tensions.

Dr. Hess authority explains the causes of sleep as being threefold—(1) Sleep is brought about by a gradual decrease in the stimulation supplied to the brain, neutralizing the effects of the factors of fatigue and cessation of stimuli. All three of these factors seem to lie in the province of science rather than of personal study power.

What can we do to avoid sleeping in class? Personally, for one as a student, Prof. Bastle, and for others as a student, I have adopted methods which may be of interest to you, Prof. Bastle. In his book, "Mental Health" Dr. D. W. LaRue gives the following—avoid tiresome bankruptcy by becoming efficient, study tasks and rest little and often.

Of course, there are fallacies in these simple rules. How can a student do more than shirt his head in attempting to study this schedule? And how can a man rest when he has to be active for class classes in a row?

Let's face it, Prof. Bastle. There just doesn't seem to be a good method of eliminating the disease of sleeping in class. Some say, "Get enough sleep at night." But we answer, "Isn't 10 hours a day enough?"

Others will tell us that we don't relax while we sleep, but we ask, "How can we relax any more?"

The crux of the situation seems to be that we know little about sleep, its causes and how to get rid of it at the wrong times. This means that those of you who don't sleep in class will have to help us solve the problem if we are to have full class participation.

Let's be kind to sleep, Prof. Bastle. After all, didn't Cervantes say, "Now blessings light on him who first invented this same sleep!"

Sleepily,
Omar

"German popular music," says instructor Arnold C. Breitkamp of the modern languages department, "is a great deal like ours, except that the swing music is more controlled and the sweet is less sweet and more animated." Vicetersa, Sis!

Better, believe it, because Mr. Breitenkamp recently married two and a half years in Germany and has therefore drew those facts first.

His work there with the military government consisted of two parts. First, he helped study German political advisers. When that work was finished, he reclaimed German writing to direct any pro-Nazi tinge they might have.

He met his wife, a native of Berlin, there and says that she likes her new country.

"She likes the freedom here," remarked Breitenkamp, "the lack of class consciousness and the generous way of living. But one thing she doesn't like is the radio commercial. Radio is on a higher cultural standard in Germany."

Surprisingly enough, she likes hillbilly music, which she first heard over an American station in Germany. Both Breitenkamps like German popular music.

They also love the outdoor life, approving such sports as swimming, hike and boating.

"I suppose we'll go ice skating when the weather is right," he added.

A Drake man, Breitenkamp received his B. degree there in 1936 with a major in chemistry. Later he received his master's degree there in Germanics. Since then he has done graduate work and taught at Northwestern and Iowa universities. He also served as the doctorate next summer at Stiff.

Photography is an enthusiasm about color photography, especially the natural coloring of the Swiss Alps.

Comparing the German and American student, Breitenkamp says that German is more serious more adult. His examinations are given by the state. He has to be!"

Knights Smear Wesleyan 41-7

By Adam Meldinger

Wartburg rolled out its heavy artillery last night and opened up on Iowa Wesleyan with an all-out bid to blast its way to an impressive 41-7 win.

Led by Paul Bruns, who scored four of Wartburg's six touchdowns and ran for 112 yards, the Knights scored early in the initial period and were never headed as they gradually widened the margin.

The running of Bruns and Darrel Sievers and the passing of Stan Sliepen were the big difference offensively as the Knights rolled up 272 yards on the ground, 159 of their 428 yards through the air.

Blue Holds Opponents.

Meanwhile, the Wartburg defensive line again held the opponents to a virtual standstill. The Tigers could pick up only 42 yards by rushing.

Big Ery Hanau was the standout in the line as he turned in quite a tremendous job, handling the Wesleyan ball carriers like a bear handles an intruder. Ray Mohr also turned in a good game at guard while Harold Whitaker played his usual consistent game at his guard slot.

Wartburg got off to a fast start up when "Buzz" Matous intercepted a Stan Sliepen pass on Wagner's 43-yard line and put the ball in the Green and Gold Bruns went over two plays later. Knights Score Again.

The Knights came right back from the 33 when a pass to Darrel White were forced to punt Bruns, "Thud" Stanley and Sievers both turns in lugging the ball with Bruns streaking over from the one. Matous converted.

Wartburg's third TD was set up when Bruns recovered a Tiger fumble on the Wesleyan 27. Sliepen hit Smithmeyer for 23 yards; Bruns, Sievers and Stanley carried alternately with "Sleepy Jim" hitting pay dirt from the 3 score. Matous split the uprights to tie for the point production and Wartburg led at half-time, 20-0.

Bruns set up Wartburg's lone third quarter score when he got again recovered a Tiger fumble on the Wesleyan 17 — and on two by Platte sandwiched between a pass by Sievers to Bruns and another Wagner-to-Stevens aerial good for 21 yards, put the ball on the eight. Two off-tackle plays put the Knights back on the 16, but a flip from Sievers to Platte was good for a touchdown.

Two Scores Added.

The last quarter threw minutes remaining, Stan Black and Orange scored two touchdowns in rapid succession. Two short wide open passes from Sievers to Sawyer put on the Tiger one-yard stripe. Bruns crashed over the fourth TD of the evening and Matous converted.

Iowa Wesleyan scored its lone touchdown midway through the final period when Bruns intercepted Rowley's pass on the five and scampered over for the score. Savage booted the extra point.

Perhaps the most thrilling play of the game was pulled off by a penalty. Wagner took a Tiger punt on his own 21 and, with beautiful downfield blocking, raced 79 yards only to have the run called back because of a clipping penalty. The ball was moved to the Wartburg two, and on the next play Iowa Wesleyan scored on the interception.

Age-Old Nemesis Faces Knights At Oelwein Next Thursday Night

By Bob Snyder

When Coach "Tillie" Nelson sends his Knights into battle this coming Thursday, they will be facing an age-old nemesis. For years, Upper Iowa has dominated the Iowa conference gridiron wars at the expense of Wartburg.

Last year Ogy as 1940 the Peacocks hung a 35-6 shellacking on the Knights and Black. In the first game of the 1945 season the Knights were edged 20-19 however the blue but were tied in a 20-20 deadlock. In 1946 it has been the Upper Iowa Peacocks who picked up all the marbles when the final gun went off.

Shifted To Oelwein.

Last year the game was shifted to the Oelwein Municipal stadium at the request of the Oelwein Chamber of Commerce and by consent of both schools. The change of scenery had a disastrous effect on the Knights. They fell victim of "fumbitis" and all in all, the football machine simply was not the proper functioning unit that it has been all season long. The Peacock attack which manifested itself in the person of Stan Wagner, the Westmor success has also been responsible for the greatest off the runners.

Knight Paper Advantage.

Upper Iowa lost to Buena Vista, 7-6, in the Knights' own backyard on the same score. Sampson, Oregon best tipper, now 20-13 and Wartburg 12-9. Obviously, Wartburg has an advantage on paper, but remember, that's not as much an advantage as it goes.

It's a series as fierce as this one, anything can happen, and probably will. It will undoubtedly be one of the best games of the season. Come out for Wartburg's year to regain lost prestige from the neighbors at Fayette.

Wiltshire Chosen Athlete-Of-Week

Harold Wiltshire, speedy, rugged left guard from Oak Grove, Ill., was designated Athlete-of-the-Week by the Club for the exceptional performance in the Iowa loop game with Simpson and for his unfaltering action in other gridiron battles this year.

Wartburg B's Bop BV B's By 31-20 In Thrilling Game

By Rudy Kolberg

Playing sensationally in the second half, the Wartburg Scrubs came from behind to defeat the Buena Vista B's, edged 26-25 Wednesday evening on the Wartburg gridiron. Bruns, playing only home appearance and last game of the season, the Squire counted four to a spine-tingling victory.

For the first 25 minutes of the game the visitors had control of the pigskin, as Quarterback Bob Lee fired long bombs to set 24, 76 and 12 yards to give the visitors a 25-6 lead and sink the hopes of the Wartburg followers.

From this point on, however, the Squires took charge of the scoring and dominated the play. Intercepting a B V pass on the opponents' 42-yard line and everyrap it to the 27, Ray Breis set up the Squires' first score opportunity. Two plays later Kilstrom found a Buena Vista end in Denner for the locals' first TD.

Wartburg's driving, smashing offense was the feature of Buena Vista's defense during the first half. The Squires' scoring drive to paydirt in the second 45. Fans will forget the bruising end as the "B" team gang went off for much Unmacht's plunging spearheaded the drive, with a 17-yard pass to Rabin on the two-yard line Unmacht planted over from there for the TD.

Don Zwiers, who dropped out of Beaver rumble a few minutes later, kicked the Scrubs an opportunity to forge ahead. Kilstrom and Unmacht, to the four, advanced the latter punched over with Zwiers' perfect kick. The fans went wild as the Squires took the lead 25-20.

Driving down field again, the Squires got set for a finishing touches on the glorious win by pushing over the end zone. Unmacht scored fatally. Two passes from Kilstrom to Lee Johnson featured the march, with Unmacht again scoring from the one-foot line.

From The Sidelines

By the Spectator

Knights, with no worries of a conference crown, played a natural here last night and looked like champions all the way by downing Iowa Wesleyan 41-7. High spots of the evening were the brilliant play of freshmen Bruns and Sievers, the sound defensive work, the great basketball combination of Bruns and Wagner and Mr. Sievers's gummy chewing gum which he spat out and ended the first half.

Squires' victory over Buena Vista "B" team Wednesday night upset pre-game predictions that the future Knights would finish the season with a perfect record, that of having lost every game.

They not only gained their first victory, but in so doing marked seven points to the good. The Wartburg squad has scored more than all battlings to form a hard blocking and tackling unit. A 20-6 defeat was turned into a rousing 31-20 victory. Hats off to Ax and his boys!

Around The Nation.

Minnesota's 14-7 loss at Michigan last Saturday did not eliminate the Gophers from Rose Bowl consideration. Bernie Bierman's boys are still head of Notre Dame's New Year's day classic by winning the respect as conference champs. Only two Big Ten teams in the past few years are Michigan and Northwestern. Ohio State, Iowa, Wisconsin and the Gophers are all undefeated. Illinois, although tied, is undefeated but still must play Northwestern, Indiana, Ohio State and Michigan.

Iowa's 28-21 triumph over Northwestern kept the Hawkeyes in the running for the Big Ten championship, for they rocketed into second place in the standings as Minnesota fell before Michigan. Iowa now has won three conference games against one defeat while Illinois in first place is credited with the unique record of two and one-half victories and one-half defeat.

Lynes Takes Prize.

This week's "From the Sidelines" football prediction contest again ended in a three-way tie, this time among Gilbert Nuss, Bill Lynes and Otto Schmaltz Jr. On the basis of bett scores, the weekly prize has been awarded to Lynes. Handicapper Lee Herman, who correctly predicted the 6-0 Central victory over Penn.
